A Day of Enjoyment.

Everything is ready for the big picnic at the Fair Grounds, Thursday, given by Garth Lodge, A. O. U. W., of this city.
Every indication points to it being the biggest affair of its kind ever held in the State. From all over Central Kentucky large delegations are coming. Gov.
Beckham and his staff will arrive Thursday morning, and most of the Grand Lodge officers will come in the day previous.

The baby show will be a special feature, and there are already ten entries, with numerous others by Thursday.
There are two special prizes for the finest boy and girl, baby donated by J.
T. Hinton and A. F. Wheeler & Co.

The balloon ascension and parachute drop by the educated baboon will be a drawing novelty. The music by the celebrated First Regiment Band, of Cincinnati, will be another drawing card. There has been nothing left undone by the committee to make the picnic a success, and weather permitting, that is already assured.
The price of admission will be 25 cents to every one except children under 14 years of age.

Here It Is, "Read It Right."

Under the heading of "Read It Right" the Gazette publishes an article containing so few of the facts in the case, that it would be utterly impossible to read it anything like right.

The Gazette is usually so outspoken and fair, never perverting facts through fear or favor, we are convinced it has been imposed on, either by having been given misrepresentations of the facts, or else only a part of them, in connection with this much talked of question of furnishing the new Court-house.

The Gazette starts out with the statement that there was but one bidder because only one bid was less than the sum under which all had been told to bid, that one "lone bidder" being Mr.
Hinton. "Here is where the Gazette has been either imposed on by intentional misrepresentation or the concealment of part of the facts.

Now let's take it for granted that it is true there was only one bidder, which however, we do not admit, and will show does not contain a shadow of truth.
However, if it were true, that with four reliable parties bidding, only one came within the limited price and that price was for goods the committee had all signified was such as would be satisfactory, and none of the others had bid within $1,900 of that price for satisfactory goods, would it not seem to all right thinking people that this "lone bidder" should be awarded the contract.
So much for a supposition.

Now for some facts that can be easily obtained from more than one of the committee.

Instead of there being only one bidder,
there were four bidders within the limitation for bidders as defined by the Gazette, that is, within the limit of $5,000.
These were The A. H. Andrews Co., of Chicago, Robt. Mitchell, of Cincinnati, Ohmer & Sons, of Dayton, and J. T.
Hinton, of this city, each having in bids under $5,000. In the light of these facts we fail to see why the Gazette should say there was only one bidder.

As to why Mr. Hinton bid only $4,995 instead of $4,999.99, either of which would have been within the amount, we cannot say. We suppose, however, that it must have been either that Mr.
Hinton uses an adding machine that cannot be run any higher, or that the standing of his competitors made him lose his nerve and he was afraid to ask any more.

We agree that "all the rant about Mr.
Ohmer bidding $6,900 is the worst of rot," as there is no plausible excuse for considering a $6,900 bid when one has been made at $1,900 less for equal if not better values by a party equally as reliable.

Now some more facts. The bidders were all told to bid on goods that would come under $5,000. Two of them, Mitchell and Andrews, put in one bid each under that amount and one each considerably over. Ohmer bid on three grades, one under that amount and two over. Mr. Hinton bid on three grades, a 1 under that amount. Now how many bidders were there?

Still some more facts. The bids of Mitchell and Andrews and Ohmer that were under $5,000, were for goods that the committee said they did not want and would not consider. Mr. Hinton's two lower bids were for $4,650 and $3,990. But these also were for goods the committee would not consider, as were also the goods in Ohmer's two lower bids of $5,830 and $4,300. Now with these facts before us we are willing to admit that there ought to be only "one lone bidder" left in the ring, and that one Mr. Hinton.

If the lowest bids are to be considered, then Mr. Hinton's bid of $3,990 is lower than Andrews, Mitchell's and Oh-mer's lowest bids of $4,990, $4,940 and $4,300.

If only those goods that the committee consider desirable are to be taken into account then only the highest bid of each one comes within the limitation.
Only one of these, Mr. Hinton's, is within the limit of price.

If Mitchell and Andrews were sent home because their bids were higher than Ohmer's, can anybody explain why Ohmer was not sent home because he was higher than Mr. Hinton?

Does anybody know why two bidders were retained instead of four?

The last straw at which the Gazette grasps is as weak as all the rest of the flimsy fabric of excuses for this unreasonable delay. It says that the committee considers Mr. Hinton's bid is too high. This cannot apply to all the committee, as two at least have expressed themselves as satisfied with the bid.
This position of the Gazette seems ridiculous in the light of the facts.

In the first place the committee, with the assistance of their architects, estimated that it would take about $5,000 to furnish the goods required. Four experienced and responsible furnishers made bids on the goods, and all but one have asked more than this amount for the goods wanted. Mr. Hinton alone has agreed to furnish satisfactory goods within the amount. The next nearest bid under the amount made by any other bidder is only about $600 less and is for goods that are not wanted at any price. This don't look like Mr. Hinton can be much too high, considering the quantity and quality of the goods to be furnished.

We understand that Mr. Hinton is willing to put up a cash guarantee of the full amount that the goods shall be satisfactory, and is willing to leave the whole matter to the entire court or the people at large. What more could be asked? The bids were all made in good faith, and there is no reason why the contract should not be awarded to Mr.
Hinton in the same good faith without any further "hitch" or "holding back" to let somebody else in.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT.

Curt Jett and Tom White Convicted of Murder.

The Application for a New Trial Was Made—The Prosecution May Not Oppose the Motion as to Jett's Case.

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 15.—Curt Jett, and Tom White, the Jackson feudists, were both found guilty of the Marcum assassination by the jury Friday and sentenced to life terms in the penitentiary.

White flushed as the jurors handed the verdict to the judge and tears came into his eyes and the blood seemed to leave his face as he heard the fateful words. Jett, with clenched jaws, listened to the sentence and still tried to keep up his air of braggadocio.

The defense filed grounds and motion for a new trial at 11 o'clock Friday morning and Judge Osborne set 3:30 o'clock Saturday morning for the hearing of the motion. The motion and grounds consist entirely of objections to the evidence ruled in by the court, and the attempted introduction of evidence by the defense, and which was ruled out, and also to certain affidavits made by the defendants saying that a fair and impartial trial could not be had here on account of military display being made which inflamed the public mind so that a fair trial could not be had. It is almost certain that the judge will overrule the motion for this new trial.

The attorneys for the prosecution were in consultation all Friday afternoon as to whether or not they will oppose the motion as to Jett, as they say if they can get a new trial in this case they will have enough evidence in the case at the next trial to convict him. However, prosecuting Attorney Byrd said that if they concluded to oppose the new trial, that at the next term of the Harrison circuit court before Judge Osborne, which begins three weeks from Monday, they will put forward the case of the commonwealth against Curtiss Jett, one of the defendants, for the murder of Jim Cockerill, to which murder there were some six eye witnesses, thereby succeeding in hanging Jett, which has been the ultimate aim of the prosecution in the case just tried.

The main features in the case at bar Friday have been the charges against Juror Jasper King, who lives in this city, and who was until two years ago a deputy sheriff of the county and a man who has been highly esteemed. Jurors McNeese, Northcutt and Tate all said Friday morning that King did attempt to influence them to decide for Jett and White in this case by saying that there was nothing against the defendants. Judge Osborne, in his admonition to the jury, told them not to talk about this case among each other until it was finally given to them to decide. This seems, and it is said by attorneys here, to be contempt of court.

No movements have been made as yet as to the soldiers and Col. Williams, the officer in command of the situation, said Friday afternoon that no movements as to the soldiers were yet decided on and would not be decided on until Saturday after the grounds and motion for a new trial had been passed on by the court and that the matter of the movements of the soldiers were in the hands of himself and Judge Osborne.

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 17.—Curtis Jett and Tom White were Saturday removed from this city, and are now locked in separate cells in towns that are widely distant. Jett was taken to Lexington at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Tom White was taken to Covington at 4 o'clock.

A Party of Nuns and Indian Girls Were More or Less Injured.

Great Falls, Mont., Aug. 17.—By the overturning of a picnic wagon from St. Peter's mission, a party of nuns and Indian girls were dashed many feet down the side of a hill. Sister Annunciate was fatally injured, and Mary Reed, a half-breed Indian girl, was seriously hurt. Another nun and several Indian girls were badly bruised and lacerated. The accident occurred during a heavy electric storm, a flash of lightning frightening the horses and causing them to dash over a steep embankment.

WAGON STRUCK BY STREET CAR.

Two Persons Seriously and Five Were Slightly Injured.

St. Louis, Aug. 17.—A street car on the Cherokee division of the St. Louis transit lines struck a wagon filled with 15 persons near the intersection of Gravois avenue and Meramec street Sunday night, seriously injuring John J. Mauser and his wife, Bertha, and slightly injuring Robert, their 8-year-old son. Mrs. Otto Elchinger, Miss Ida Zimmer, Miss Mary Gabel and Joseph Koch.

Declares the Will is Invalid.

Naples, Aug. 15.—A parish priest named Milone willed his whole fortune of $80,000 to the reigning pontiff when Leo XIII. was at the point of death. The priest has since died and his family now set up the claim that the will is invalid.

Good Price For a Colt.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 15.—At the auction sale of yearlings from the Fairview stud, the property of Chas. and A. J. Reed Friday, brown colt, by Imp. Knight of the Thistle-Active, sold to P. J. Dwyer, for $2,500.

A PITCHED BATTLE.

About 1,000 Shots Fired Between the Strikers and Non-Union Men.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 17.—A clash of union and non-union men in which 1,000 shots were fired and several men were injured took place early Sunday morning between 300 striking machinists and 25 non-union men who had taken their places in the Riverside plant of the United States steel corporation. The battle was begun Saturday night. The machinists have been out on strike for several weeks and the situation was becoming desperate for the corporation until they imported about 20 men to take the places of the strikers. The men have been assaulted from time to time but the situation has not reached an alarming stage heretofore.

The strikers congregated about the boarding houses of the non-unionists Saturday night fully armed and began an attack on the places. The houses were heavily barricaded and many volleys were fired into the structures.

Finally a well-directed shot from within the house wounded one of the strikers and he was carried to a hospital. Clay Hoover, a spectator, was shot in the left knee. A number of other people who were in the building with the non-unionists received wounds.

The rioting continued until 2 o'clock Sunday morning, when it abated somewhat. The police were powerless to interfere and reinforcements were requested. A fresh outbreak is feared at any moment.

At 10 o'clock Sunday night the strikers, who are lying in the hills, fired on Peter Silatek as he passed. He was seriously wounded. The strikers mistook him, thinking he was a spy.

AMERICAN HORSES.

COL. WILLIAM E. BUNDY.

United States Attorney For Southern Ohio Died Suddenly.

Cincinnati, Aug. 17.—Col. William E. Bundy, United States attorney for the southern district of Ohio and a cousin of Senator Foraker, died here suddenly Sunday from an uraemic convulsion or acute Bright's disease. He had been in usual health until last Thursday night when he suffered a chill, from which he never recovered. Although not yet in the prime of life he stood high with the Hamilton county bar, had been at the head of the state and national organizations of the Sons of Veterans and prominent in the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He was for years mayor of Norwood. He has done much for his Alma Mater as trustee of Ohio university at Athens and was very popular as the young colonel of the First regiment of the Ohio national guard that was about to go into camp.

ENDED HIS LIFE.

Department of Commerce and Labor Clerk Commits Suicide.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Stephen E. Hall, of Aurora, Ill., a protégé of Senator Albert J. Hopkins, killed himself in his room here Sunday. Hall, shortly before ending his life had suffered great pain due to some stomach trouble, and had applied at a near by drug store for a certain medicine which the druggist was unable to supply. He was a clerk in the department of commerce and labor, having been transferred recently from the census bureau where he had been employed during the past two years.

Will Raise Goats on Large Scale.

TURKISH "REFORMS."

Bulgaria Presents a Memorandum to the Powers.

Precise Details of the Conditions in Macedonia Are Given—Constitutes a Terrible Category of Murders, Tortures, Etc.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 17.—The Bulgarian government has presented a memorandum to the powers setting out at great length the condition of affairs during the past three months in Macedonia since the Turkish government undertook to inaugurate the promised reforms. The most precise details, dates, places and names of persons are given in the memorandum, the whole constituting a terrible category of murder, torture, incendiarism, pillage and general oppression committed by the Ottoman soldiers and officials. These particulars were obtained entirely from official sources, such as the reports of the Bulgarian government and in many instances the reports made by Turkish authorities.

The Bulgarian government guarantees the absolute truth of every statement and challenges the power to disprove a single charge made in the memorandum. The memorandum begins by stating that during the past three months the Ottoman government has taken a series of measures with the alleged intention of inaugurating the era of promised reform and of assuring peace and tranquility to the Bulgarian population of European Turkey, but which have had the contrary effect of further exasperating this population and reviving the revolutionary movement. Instead of proceeding solely against persons guilty of breaches of the public order the military and civil authorities have sought every possible pretext to persecute, terrorize and ruin the Bulgarian inhabitants alike in the large cities and in the small villages.

Wholesale massacres, individual murders, the destruction of villages, the pillaging and setting fire to houses, the arrests, ill-treatment, tortures, arbitrary imprisonment and banishment, the closing and disorganizing of schools, the ruining of merchants, the collection of taxes for many years in advance—such proceeds the memorandum are among the acts of the Ottoman administration of the vilayets of Salonica, Monastir, Uskub and Adrianople.

The memorandum next relates in detail a number of such cases in each vilayet. Beginning with the vilayet of Salonica, it states that in the town of Salonica itself the Bulgarian professors of the university, the students and shopkeepers, in fact, all the intelligent Bulgarians in the city have been cast into prison. One hundred and twenty soldiers entered the village of Gorna-Ribnita May 19 and tortured to death five men and two women.

The villagers were beaten and tortured, the women violated and the houses plundered while the administrative authorities looked on. In the vilayet of Monastir artillery bombarded and razed the flourishing town of Soresdech, the 300 houses being left a heap of ruins. At the beginning of July two Greek bands with the connivance of authorities pillaged Bulgarian villages and murdered many of their inhabitants. In the vilayet of Uskub the entire Bulgarian population has been systematically persecuted since last May. The director of the normal school at Uskub was imprisoned because the library contained the "revolutionary" works of "Othello" and "Les Misérables." In the districts of Palanka, Koschani, Koumovo and Gostigir, the prisons are filled with Bulgarian priests, schoolmasters and merchants. During June the soldiers and Bashibazouks terrorized the inhabitants of the Schif district, torturing the people with red-hot irons. Similar atrocities perpetrated in the vilayet of Adrianople and other places are cited.

THE TROPICAL CYCLONE.

The Effects in Yucatan Were Widespread and Terrible.

Merida, Yucatan, Aug. 17.—The effects of the tropical cyclone in this city and in Progresso were widespread and terrible. Although everybody had been prepared for the gale in consequence of warnings given, panic quickly seized the community. The terrible destruction wrought overthrew the anticipated calm. Great trees were torn up by the roots, roofs blown away and houses and plantations destroyed. Great damage was done in a very short time. Great efforts were made to save small vessels but to no avail, and 20 of those lying in the port of Progresso were cast upon shore.

Deported Eleven Times.

New York, Aug. 17.—For the 11th time Francesco Ranezza, a professional stowaway, has attempted to make his home in this country, and for the 11th time he will be deported Monday at the expense of the steamship company which brought him here.

Break in Textile Workers' Strike.

Philadelphia, Aug. 17.—Another break in the textile workers' strike occurred Monday when 3,000 rug weavers, Turkish towel weavers and woolen yarn workers returned to work. No concessions were made by the employers.

The Calumets Won.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—The last of this season's series of lacrosse games between St. Paul and the Calumets of Chicago, was played here Sunday and ended in a victory for the local team by a score of 10 to 2.

The Thrice-a-Week World was a brilliant success in the beginning and has steadily grown ever since. Time is test of all things, and has set its seal of approval on the Thrice-a-Week World, which is widely circulated in every State and Territory of the Union, and wherever there are people who can read our mother tongue.

This paper for the coming winter and the year 1903, will make its news service, if possible, more extensive than ever. All events of importance, no matter where they happen, are reported accurately and promptly.

The subscriber for only one dollar a year, gets three papers every week and more general reading than most great dailies can furnish at five or six times the price.

The Thrice-a-Week World is absolutely fair in its political news. Partisan bias is never allowed to affect its news columns, and Democrat and Republican alike can obtain in its pages truthful accounts of all the great political campaigns.

In addition to all the news, the Thrice-a-Week World furnishes the best serial fiction, elaborate market report and other features of interest.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year and this pays for 150 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE BOURBON NEWS together one year for $2.75.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

A LEADER!

SUCH IS THE

Cincinnati Enquirer

IN THE NEWSPAPER WORLD.

An indispensable adjunct to the man of business, the financier, manufacturer, producer, tradesman, farmer and laborer.

All need certain facts and knowledge of affairs that pertain to each ones calling in life.

More especially, now, during the great onward march our country is making towards wealth and power, science and literature, mechanism and products of the soil.

The wide-awake gathers dollars where lagards earn cents. The enterprising newspaper that brings knowledge of the world's doings is the main prop and capital of the money-maker. Without the aid of a paper, like the ENQUIRER, one becomes the victim of his more enterprising neighbor. The information the ENQUIRER brings you for a few cents costs thousands of dollars to obtain. You need the ENQUIRER, and we want your patronage because deserving of it. The DAILY ENQUIRER is the best all around newspaper in the United States. The WEEKLY ENQUIRER ranks as one of the ablest weekly journals in the land, and serves the average town and country masses faithfully in a reliable and profitable manner at $1.00 a year, while the daily issue at $14.00 a year, is worth that sum every day to the business man. ### Garth Fund Beneficiaries:

The Garth Fund Commissioners presented to the Fiscal Court yesterday their report upon the examinations of the applicants for the benefit of the Garth Fund and their recommendation as to who shall receive same, which report was accepted and approved by the Court and it was ordered that in accordance with said report the Treasurer of Bourbon County pay to the persons named below, out of the income of the Garth Fund investment, the sums of money set opposite their respective names:

Lucien Back	$200
Clarence Conway	80
Noah Clark	35
Douglas Embury	50
Virgil Gillispie	60
Joe Will Hawkins	60

Irvine Keller	100
Prentice Lancaster	100
Frank O'Neil	85
Clay Sutherland	95
Rhodes Smith	80
Fithian Shipp	125
John C. Ewalt	25

There were ten new applicants but none were accepted on account of insufficiency of funds. E. M. Dickson, C. M. Thomas and John T. Collins were elected commissioners for ensuing year.

A FINE BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY.—We call attention to the for sale advertisement of E. F. Spears & Sons in another column. This is the best equipped mill in the South for grinding corn, handling grain, coal or general commission business.

It is a rare opportunity to get into a good paying business. (1t)

WANTED.—Buyer for first-class, high grade piano. Apply at News office. Purchaser can get bargain. (1t)

COLORED MASONS.—The Grand Lodge of Colored Masons of Kentucky convene in this city to-day, and will be in session until Friday. Palestine Commandery of Knights Templars, No. 18, of Louisville will go into camp to-day on the Williams lot, on Winchester street. A big picnic Friday winds up the meeting.

CLOTHES CLEANED.—Get out your fall and winter clothes and send them to Thomas Brothers on Main street, to be cleaned. They guarantee a first-class job. (2t)

MORMONS.—The second annual conference of the Kentucky Latter Day Saints, or Mormons, are now in session in a large tobacco barn about one mile from Owingsville. Thirteen Mormon elders are present and hundreds of visitors. There are about thirty converts to the Mormon church in Bath county.

BARGAINS.—Star fruit cans 40 cents per dozen; Mason's quart fruit jars, 50 cents per dozen.

JAS. ARKLE.

If the statement is true, that Judge Hargis said that if the prisoners are found guilty (meaning Jett and White) the Democratic party will have a hard time carrying his district after this, it is a slanderous insinuation on the Democratic party, which has done and now doing all in its power to put down and punish assassination. If Judge Hargis wants assassins protected he should join the Republican ranks. The sooner the Democratic party gets rid of such men as Hargis, the better for it.

CALL AND PAY UP.—Those indebted to the old firm of O'Brien & James are requested to call at my place of business and settle a once. The accounts of this firm are in my hands for collection and must be paid by September 1st, or they will be placed in the hands of an attorney for collection.

H. O. JAMES.

EX-PARISIANS FLOURISHING.—We are in receipt of a copy of a souvenir edition of The Hobart (Oklahoma) News-Republican. It contains 32 pages of advertisements and write ups of the business men of this flourishing town. It has a large half-tone cut of 47 members of the Antler Club, and in the group we readily recognized two ex-Parisiens, J. K. Spears and S. B. Woodford. We also noticed advertisement of the Farmers and Merchants National Bank, with Mr. A. K. Bedford, president, J. K. Spears, cashier, and S. B. Woodford, clerk; capital stock, $25,000; deposits, $100,000. From all accounts this bank is doing a money making business on a large scale. A fire at Hobart last Thursday destroyed forty-four of the best business houses in the town, entailing a loss of $250,000. They began at once to rebuild.

AS GOOD AS NEW.—If you have any old fall and winter clothes at home get them out and we will make them as good as new for you. If you do not give your first-class work we do not want your money.

THOMAS BROS.
Main Street.

PTOMAIN POISONING.—Capt. H. J. Gibson, T. F. Gibson and Robert Low, of Pineville, Ky., are very sick at their homes as a result of ptomaine poisoning from eating pineapple sherbet.

WAYFARER'S REST.—At Frankfort, the Salvation Army has bought a lot and is preparing to erect a "Wayfarer's Rest" in the "Craw" neighborhood. A good neighborhood for missionary work.

TRAVELING MAN DIES.—At Middlesboro, Ky., William Bruce, a Cincinnati traveling man, died at the Middlesboro Hotel, Saturday night, of intestinal obstruction. He was sick thirty-six hours. The remains were taken to Covington.

POPULAR LANDLORD.—Mr. D. D. Connor, the popular hotel man, will take charge of Hotel Fordham on Sept. 8th for himself. The house has been leased to other parties for the past eighteen months. With the affable Dan in the office and his excellent wife as housekeeper, is enough to insure the public that no better hotel can be found in Kentucky. (1t)

MURDER AND SUICIDE.—At Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. Lillie Maude Evans, wife of George B. Evans, manager of the American Transfer Company, was murdered in her home, in the southern portion of that city, early Saturday. The body of her husband, against whom she filed suit for divorce last Wednesday, was found in Mount St. Mary's cemetery, two miles from the scene of the murder. He had shot himself in the head. Evans was born in Kentucky thirty-eight years ago, and his father was shot and killed as the result of a feud.

WINDSOR BAR.—If you desire a drink of the best whisky sold over any bar, call at the Windsor Hotel Bar, and you can get it. 2t.

WHEAT WANTED.—We will pay highest market price and will receive at either end of town.

E. F. SPEARS & SONS.

BRIDEGROOM BLEW OUT GAS.—Edward Mitchell, aged twenty-two years, and Mamie Jones, aged twenty-one years, of Moorefield, Bath county, were married at Maysville, Saturday. Shortly after they retired at the Central Hotel the clerk smelled gas and discovered that it was escaping from the jet in the room occupied by the couple. When told the gas was escaping in his room, Mitchell replied he guessed not, as he had blown it out. Luckily the transom over the door was open, or the couple would have been asphyxiated.

FOUND.—At Parks Hill on Sunday, a ladies gold watch. Owner can get same by proving property and paying for advertisement. Apply to Son Roche at Lavin & Connell's. 1t

CHURCH CHIMES.

—At Mt. Carmel Christian Church Sunday night, Elder Carey Morgan, assisted by Elder Walker ordained four deacons and three Elders. Elder Morgan preached a most excellent sermon. The house was crowded, about 200 not being able to get on the inside. Elder Brooks, of Riddles Mills, was also ordained as minister of the gospel.

—Rev. O. O. Green, of Versailles, will preach in the Baptist Church next Sunday morning.

—Rev. O. O. Green will preach at the union service Sunday evening, at Baptist church.

HAVE you seen those ladies' Oxfords that have just arrived at Thomson's?

THE BOURBON NEWS

SWIFT CHAMP, EDITOR AND OWNER.

NOTICE.—Dr. C. H. Bowen, optician, will be at A. J. Winters & Co.'s, on Thursday, August 27th. Examination free.

WANTED.—A copy of The News of July 24th. Please leave at this office.

LOST.—On Saturday, a black feather box was dropped from a buggy on Main or Pleasant street, or at the cemetery. Finder please leave at this office or with Mrs. Ellen O'Brien, on Upper Main street.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION.—The State Convention of the Kentucky Sunday School Association convenes in Lexington, to-day, Aug. 18, and will be in session three days. This promises to be a very interesting meeting.

DROPPED DEAD.—Richard Washington, colored, 32 year of age, while sitting on the porch at his home, a house on the farm of Hon. A. S. Thompson, near Clintonville, fell over dead. Heart disease cause assigned by verdict of the Coroner's jury.

FREE DELIVERY.—Paris has spent several hundred dollars in making necessary improvements that are required to obtain the free delivery service. We are entitled to it by law. Suppose Mayor Perry and Postmaster Sweeney get a hustle on themselves and push this matter to a finish.

A. O. U. W. MEETING.—The regular meeting of Garth Lodge, will be held to-morrow (Wednesday) night at 7:30 sharp. A full attendance is desired, as Grand Master Osborne and Past Grand Master Blitzer will be present. They will both address the lodge on matters of importance to every member.

AT COST.—We will close out our entire stock of lawns at cost and below if you will buy now.

HARRY SIMON.

CORONER KEPT BUSY.—Coroner Dr. Wm. Kenney has been kept busy holding inquest for the past few days. On Friday he held inquest over the body of L. P. Humble, at Shawhan; Saturday over the body of James Nelson, Jr., on Eighth street, and Sunday over the body of Richard Washington, near Clintonville.

SCHOOL OPENING.—E. M. Costello's school, Paris Academy, begins Monday, August 18th. Thorough and painstaking instruction will be given in English, Mathematics, Latin, Greek, Elementary, Science and Literature. Patronage solicited. Number of pupils always limited. It is important that all be present first day to enable ready classification.

LAY FOR HIM.—Some miscreant on Saturday night broke the globes and crowns on four of the city's gas posts on Upper Main street. This is the second time recently that this has been done, and it is to be hoped that the party will be discovered and given the limit. The officers have a clue and are laying for the scoundrel.

THOMSON'S summer shoes are just the thing for this weather.

ANOTHER TIE UP.—The Building Committee of our new Court-house is now tied up on the clock question. There are only four members of this committee at present, and it seems it is hard for any question to come up without a tie vote, would it not be better for another member to be added to the committee or let the whole court act upon these contracts.

SCHOOL SHOES.—New line of School Shoes just received.

HARRY SIMON.

LAND SOLD.—Auctioneer Forsyth reports sale on Saturday of 114 acres of land belonging to John J. Letton's heirs, near Little Rock, to Geo. and J. C. Hamilton, at $67 per acre. J. Best Letton and Mrs. Breckinridge Crouch were the only heirs. Mr. Letton will return to Columbia, S. C., and his sister, Mrs. Crouch, with her husband, will in a few days leave for their home at Venitia, Indian Territory.

FOR SALE.—Furniture in first-class hotel, and No. 1 stand, cheap for cash. Will also rent the hotel. Address P. O. Box 198 for further information. 4t.

EX-PARISIAN APPRECIATED.—Dr. W. Barclay Stephens, of Alameda, Cal., formerly of this city, was presented by the Board of Health, (of which he is a member,) of his adopted home, with an elegant cut glass set, as a mark of the high esteem in which the doctor is held by them. It was the first meeting of the board Dr. Stephens had attended since his marriage, and he was very much surprised when this beautiful gift was presented. Dr. Stephens is a Paris boy, whom our citizens are proud of, he having achieved eminence in his profession, and the California papers tell of the high regard in which he is held by the people of that State.

Fatal Accident.

On Saturday afternoon, about 1:30 o'clock, a colored man was going out Georgetown street with a lay-baler, a very heavy piece of machinery, and a crowd of boys had jumped on the baler for a ride. While going down the steep hill before reaching the old bridge, the 14-year-old son of Jim Strader, colored, fell off and the wheel passed over his body. He was picked up by persons witnessing the accident and carried to his home, near by, but was dead when they reached his home.

It is remarkable that there are not more of these distressing accidents in our city, for both white and black allow their children to run at large on our streets day and night.

BEST BRANDS.—Eiffel Brand Hosiery and Queen Quality Shoes can be found at HARRY SIMON'S.

Experienced Dry Goods Men.

Mr. L. Frank and son, Mr. B. A. Frank, have been in the East for the past ten days selecting their fall and winter stock of dry goods. Some of these goods have already arrived, and judging by them L. Frank & Co. will have a fall and winter stock of goods not to be surpassed, if equaled, in Central Kentucky. Mr. L. Frank has been buying goods for the Bourbon county trade for the past 40 years and should certainly know the kind of goods to select to suit the most fastidious of our ladies, and Mr. B. A. Frank, you might say, has been raised up in the business, and when it comes to selecting a stock of dry goods, he is "a chip off the old block." With these two experienced dry goods men in the East with the intention of buying one of the best and largest fall and winter stocks ever brought to Paris, you may expect something that will suit all classes of the trade.

BUY NOW.—Those beautiful porch chairs and refrigerators on display at Hinton's can be bought cheap if you purchase now.

Big Cattle Sale.

One of the largest sales of cattle which have taken place in this vicinity in many months was consummated Friday when Mr. Simon Weil, the well known cattle dealer of this section, conveyed to Lehman Bros., of Baltimore, Md., 600 beef cattle to the immense sum of $10,000.

Mr. Weil is well known as one of the most extensive cattle dealers in the South, but this sale is the largest he has negotiated for a long time.

He shipped the 600 head to Baltimore on a special train yesterday. Of this vast number of heaves he obtained 404 from Mr. J. H. Graves, of Chilburg, for which he paid $80,000. The remainder of the lot were picked up over the state at various small sales.

BIG TOBACCO SALE.—Dan Peed, who has been in Louisville, for the past two weeks, returned home Saturday. While there Mr. Peed closed out his entire purchase of tobacco in this country, 282 hogshead, at private sale, at an average of 10 cents. This is the largest private sale that has been made on the brakes for a number of years.

AT HALF PRICE.—Don't forget those cooking crocks at Charley Cook's. He's selling them at half price.

LARGE STOCK.—Buy the baby one of those nice baby buggies while they are so cheap at J. T. Hinton's.

A DISTINGUISHED VISITOR.—Cole Younger, the noted guerilla, was in the city Sunday. He came down from Lexington at 3:15 and drove to Millers to see his cousin, Mrs. Harmon Stitt. Cole Younger is 59 years of age, and is a remarkably well preserved man. Many ex-Confederates and admirers shook hands with "Cole," and all assured him they were pleased to see him in Kentucky.

VINEGAR.—The best vinegar and pickling spices at C. P. Cook & Co.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL.—Mrs. Lizzie Walker's preparatory school opens Monday, August 31. It is conceded by nearly every one that Mrs. Walker is one of the best teachers for small children in Kentucky. The children always love her and under her tutelage their improvement shows for itself.

MRS. LIZZIE WALKER'S preparatory school will begin on Monday, August 31.

Lark P. Humble Found Dead.

On Friday morning, Mr. Jas. Wilson was walking along the railroad track near Shawhan he discovered the dead body of a man lying partially in the shrubbery near the track. At Coroner's inquest, held by Dr. Wm. Kenney, Friday afternoon, the man was identified as Lark P. Humble, of Mt. Olivet, Ky., by papers found in his valise which was picked up Tuesday about ten feet from where the body was found. He was seen crossing Townsend bridge Tuesday morning, a few minutes ahead of a train. It is thought the train struck him, knocking him down an embankment. The body had lodged in a small tree and was badly decomposed. He was about 50 years of age. The body was claimed by a brother of the deceased who lives in Harrison county.

The following is the verdict of the Coroner's jury:

"We, the jury, find this to be the dead body of L. P. Humble, and that he met his death, according to the evidence, Tuesday, August 11, 1903, by being struck by a train, near Shawhan, Ky., and near Townsend bridge.

CUPID'S ARROW.

—The Lexington Leader has the following to say of a wedding that is of interest to Paris people: "Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock the marriage of Miss Sue Graves, of Scott county, to Mr. Wm. Edward Tucker, of Paris, Ky., will be solemnized at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Roberts, on North Broadway. Miss Graves is Mrs. Roberts' sister. The wedding will be very quiet, as the bride's family are yet in mourning. Rev. I. J. Spencer, of Central Christian Church will perform the ceremony and Miss Hambrick, of Georgetown, will assist in the wedding music. Miss Lucy Graddy, of Versailles, will be maid of honor and Mr. Wm. Graves, of Scott county, best man. "After the ceremony the bridal couple will leave for a trip East and returning make their home in Paris, where Mr. Tucker is in business."

—Mr. Ernest Bashford and Miss Jessie Phillips, both of St. Louis, will be married in that city to-day. Mr. Bashford was formerly of this city, being a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bashford. Mr. Bashford and bride will arrive here to-morrow to visit his sisters, Mrs. Henry Powers and Misses Mary and Louise Bashford. We congratulate the young couple and wish them a life of sunshine.

SMILES IN THE RAIN.

The coward may smile
When there's sun all the while—
It's braver to smile in the rain.
The weakest may joy
When there's naught to annoy—
He's stronger who smiles through his pain.
And then when there's sun, when there's bird song and breeze,
When gloom's put to rout and discouragement flees,
What need has the world
Of the mouth corners curled
In the cheeriest smiles, when the fields and trees
Are smiling so broadly that nobody sees
The wee bit of brightness you're giving the while?
But days when it's rainy there's need
for your smile.

The weaking may smile
When there's brightness the while—
It's better to smile when there's rain.
The gloomster may joy
When there's naught to annoy—
He's brave who can laugh through his pain.
When all the world is so full of song
That birds sing and brooklets go warbling along,
With hearts light as chaff
All the earth seems to laugh—
The sunny day courage says not you are strong,
Though hearty good cheer one could never call wrong—
But oh, when the day is all haggard and gray
And nature weeps gloomily, sobbing away—Then laugh in the hope of the sweet afterwhile.
On days when it's rainy there's need
for your smile.

CHAPTER XV.

Woman's intuition often far out-strips the slower mental process of the other sex. The mother who has to see a beloved daughter's silent suffering, well-knowing another girl to be, however indirectly, the cause of it, sees all manner of other iniquities in that other girl. Kind, charitable and gentle was Mrs. Dade, a wise mother, too, as well as most loving, but she could look with neither kindness nor charity on Miss Flower. She had held her peace; allowed no word of censure or criticism to escape her when the women were discussing that young lady; but all the more vehement was her distrust, because this point up and repressed. With the swiftness of feminine thought, for no man had yet suspected, she fathomed the secret of the trader's sudden going; and,
carried away by the excitement of the moment and the belief that none but her husband could hear, she made that startling announcement. And her intuition was unerring. Nanette Flower was indeed gone.

Yet for nearly an hour she stood alone in her conviction. Her husband quickly cautioned silence, and,
going forth, gave instructions to the couriers that sent them speeding for the Rawlins road. But at seven o'clock, Mrs. Hay herself appeared and asked to see the general, who was taking at the moment his accustomed brazer, tonic and stimulant
—the only kind he was ever known to use—a cold bath. So it was to Mrs.
Dade, in all apparent frankness and sincerity, the trader's wife began her tale. Every one at Frayne well knew that her anxiety as to the outcome of the battle on the Elk had well-nigh equalled that of the wives and sweethearts within the garrison. While her niece, after the first day's excitement, kept to her room, the aunt went flitting from house to house, full of sympathy and suggestion, but obviously more deeply concerned than they had ever seen her. Now, she seemed worried beyond words at thought of her husband's having to go just at this time. It was mainly on Nanette's account, she said. Only last night, with the mail from Laramie, had come a letter, posted in San Francisco the week before, telling Miss Flower that her dearest friend and roommate for four years at school, who had been on an extended bridal tour, would pass through Rawlins, eastward bound, on Friday's train, and begging Nanette to meet her and go as far as at least as Cheyenne.
Her husband, it seems, had been hurriedly recalled to New York, and there was no help for it. Nanette had expected to join her, and go all the way east in late October or early November; had given her promise, in fact, for she was vastly excited by the news, and despite headache and lassitude that had oppressed her for two days past, she declared she must go, and Uncle Will must take her.
So, with only a small trunk, hastily packed, of her belongings, and an iron-bound chest of the trader's, the two had started before dawn in Uncle Bill's stout buckboard, behind his famous four-mile team, with Pete to drive, and two sturdy ranchmen as outriders, hoping to reach the Medicine Bow by late afternoon, and rest at Brenner's ranch. Confidentially, Mrs. Hay told Mrs. Dade that her husband was glad of the excuse to take the route up the Platte instead of the old, rough trail southeastward over the mountains to Rock creek, for he had a large sum in currency to get to the bank, and there were desperadoes along the mountain route who well knew he would have to send that money in, and were surely on the lookout to waylay him—or

it. Ever since pay day two or three rough characters had been hanging about the store, and Hay suspected they were watching his movements, with the intention of getting word to their comrades in crime the moment he started, and it was almost as much to steal a march on them as to oblige Nanette, he so willingly left before it was light. The Rawlins road followed the Platte valley all the way to Brenner's, and, once there, he would feel safe, whereas the Rock creek trail wound through gulch, ravine and forest most of the distance, affording many a chance for ambush. Of course, said Mrs. Hay, if her husband had for a moment supposed the general would wish to see him, he would not have gone, adding, with just a little touch of proper, warlike spirit, that on the general's previous visits he had never seemed to care whether he saw Mr. Hay or not.

All this did Mrs. Dade accept with courteous, yet guarded interest.
They were seated in the little army parlor, talking in low tone; for, with unfailing tact, Mrs. Hay had asked for Esther, and expressed her sympathy on hearing of her being unnerved by the excitement through which they had passed. Well she knew that Field's serious condition had not a little to do with poor Esther's prostration, but that was knowledge never to be hinted at.
Dade himself she did not wish to meet just now. He was too direct a questioner, and had said and looked things about Nanette that made her dread him. She knew that, however austere and commanding he might be when acting under his own convictions, he was abnormally susceptible to uxorial views, and the way to win the captain's sympathies or avert his ensue, was to secure the kindly interest of his wife. Mrs. Hay knew that he had sent couriers off by the Rawlins road—a significant thing in itself —and that couriers had come in from the north with further news from Webb. She knew he had gone to the office, and would probably remain there until summoned for breakfast, and now was her time, for there was something further to be spoken of,
and while gentle and civil, Mrs. Dade had not been receptive. It was evident to the trader's wife that her lord and master had made a mistake in leaving when he did. He knew the general was on the way. He knew there was that money business to be cleared up, yet she knew there were reasons why she wanted him away—reasons hardest of all to plausibly explain. There were reasons, indeed, why she was glad Nanette was gone.

She was glad Nanette was gone,
because Field, wounded and present,
would have advantages over possible suitors absent on campaign—because all the women and a few of the men were now against her, and because from some vague, intangible symptoms, Mrs. Hay had satisfied herself that there was something in the wind Nanette was hiding from—her benefactress, her best friend, and it seemed like cold-blooded treachery.
Hay had for two days been disturbed, nervous and unhappy, yet would not tell her why. He had been cross-questioning Pete, "Crapaud" and other employes, and searching about the premises in a way that excited curiosity and even resentment, for the explanation he gave was utterly inadequate. To satisfy her, if possible, he had confided, as he said, the fact that certain money for which Lieut.
Field was accountable, had been stolen. The cash had been carefully placed in his old-fashioned safe; the missing money, therefore, had been taken while still virtually in his charge. "They might even suspect me," he said, which she knew would not be the case. "They forbade my speaking of it to anybody, but I simply had to tell you." She felt sure there was something he was concealing; something he would not tell her;
something concerning Nanette, therefore, because she so loved Nanette he shrank from revealing what might wound her, indeed, it was best that Nanette should go for the time, at least, but Mrs. Hay little dreamed that others would be saying—even this kindly, gentle woman before her —that Nanette should have stayed until certain strange things were thoroughly and satisfactorily explained.

But the moment she began, faltering not a little, to speak of matters at the post, as a means of leading up to Nanette—matters concerning Lieut. Field and his financial affairs—to her surprise Mrs. Dade gently uplifted her hand and voice. "I am going to ask you not to tell me, Mrs.
Hay," she said. "Captain Dade has given me to understand there was something to be investigated, but preferred that I should not ask about it. Now, the general will be down in 15 or 20 minutes. I suggest that we walk over to the hospital and see how
Mr. Field is getting on. We can talk, you know, as we go. Then you will breakfast with us. Indeed, may I not give you a cup of coffee now, Mrs. Hay?"

But Mrs. Hay said no. She had had coffee before coming. She would go and see if there was anything they could do for Field, and would try again to induce Mrs. Dade to listen to certain of her explanations.

But Mrs. Dade was silent and preoccupied. She was thinking of that story of Nanette's going, and wondering whether it could be true. She was wondering if Mrs. Hay knew the couriers had gone to recall Hay, and that if he and Nanette failed to return it might mean trouble for both.
She could accord to Mrs. Hay no confidence of her own, and had been compelled to decline to listen to those with which Mrs. Hay would have favored her. She was thinking of something still more perplexing. The general, as her husband finally told her, had asked first thing to see Hay, and later declared that he wished to talk with Mrs. Hay and see Nanette. Was it possible that he knew anything of what she knew—that between Hay's household and Stabber's village there had been communication of some kind —that the first thing found in the Indian pouch brought home by Capt.

Blake was a letter addressed in Nanette Flower's hand, and with it three card photographs, two of them of unmistakable Indians in civilized garb, and two letters, addressed, like hers, to Mr. Ralph Moreau—one care of the Rev. Jasper Strong, Valentine, Neb., the other to the general delivery, Omaha?

Yes, that pouch brought in by Capt.
Blake had contained matter too weighty for one woman, wise as she was, to keep to herself. Mrs. Blake, with her husband's full consent, had summoned Mrs. Hay, soon after his departure on the trail of Webb, and told her of the strange discovery.
They promptly decided there was only one thing to do with the letter—hand or send it, unopened, to Miss Flower. Then, as Blake had no time to examine further, they decided to search the pouch. There might be more letters in the same superscrip-tion.

But there were not. The first one they had already decided should go to Miss Flower. The others, they thought, should be handed unopened to the commanding officer. They might contain important information, now that the Sioux were at war, and that Ralph Moreau had turned out probably to be a real personage. But first they would consult Mrs. Dade.
They had done so the very evening of Blake's departure, even as he, long miles away, was telling Kennedy his Irish heart was safe from the designs

"DELIVERED IN PERSON TO MISS FLOWER, WHO MET HIM AT THE TRADER'S GATE."

of one blood-thirsty Sioux; and Mrs.
Dade had agreed with them that Nan-ette's letter should be sent to her forthwith, and that, as Capt. Blake had brought it in, the duty of returning the letter devolved upon his wife.
And so, after much thought and consultation, a little note was written, saying nothing about the other contents of the pouch itself. "Dear Miss Flower," it read. "The enclosed was found by Capt. Blake some time this morning. He had no time to deliver it in person. Yours sincerely, N. B. Blake."

Note and enclosure were sent first thing next morning by the trusty hand of Master Sanford Ray, himself, and by him delivered in person to Miss Flower, who met him at the trader's gate. She took it, he said, and smiled, and thanked him charmingly before she opened it. She was coming out for her customary walk at the hour of guard mounting, but the next thing he knew she had
"secooted" indoors again.

And from that moment Miss Flower had not been seen.
All this was Mrs. Dade revolving in mind as she walked pityingly by the side of the troubled woman, only vaguely listening to her flow of words. They had thought to be admitted to the little room in which the wounded officer lay, but as they tiptoed into the wide, airy hall, and looked over the long vista of pink-striped coverlets in the big ward beyond, the doctor himself appeared at the entrance and barred the way.

"Is there nothing we can do?" asked Mrs. Dade, with tears in her voice.
"Is he—so much worse?"

"Nothing can be done just now," answered Waller, gravely. "He has had high fever during the night—has been wakeful and flighty again.
I—should rather no one entered just now."

And then they noted that even the steward who had been with poor Field was now hovering about the door of the dispensary and that only Dr. Waller remained within the room.
"I am hoping to get him to sleep again presently," said he. "And when he is mending there will be a host of things for you both to do."

But that mending seemed many a day off, and Mrs. Hay, poor woman, had graver cares of her own before the setting sun. Avoiding the possibility of meeting the general just now, and finding Mrs. Dade both silent and constrained at mention of her niece's name, the trader's wife went straight homeward from the hospital, and did not even see the post commander hurrying from his office, with an open dispatch in his hand. But by this time the chief and his faithful aide were out on the veranda, surrounded by anxious wives and daughters, many of whom had been earnestly bothering the doctor at the hospital before going to breakfast. Dade much wished them away, though the news brought in by night riders was both stirring and cheery.
The Indians had flitted away from Webb's front, and he counted on reaching and rescuing the Dry Fork party within six hours from the time the courier started. They might expect the good news during the afternoon of Thursday. Scouts and flank-ers reported finding "travoids" and pony tracks leading westward from the scene of Ray's fierce battle, indicating that the Indians had carried their dead and wounded into the fastnesses of the southern slopes of the Big Horn, and that their punishment had been heavy. Among the chiefs killed or seriously wounded was this new, vehement leader whom Capt.

Blake and Ray thought might be Red Fox, who was so truculent at the Black Hills conference the previous year. Certain of the men, however, who had seen Red Fox at that time expressed doubts. Lieut. Field, said Webb, had seen him, and could probably say.

Over this dispatch the general pondered gravely. "From what I know of Red Fox," said he, "I should think him a leader of the Sitting Bull type —a shrewd, intriguing, mischief-making fellow, a sort of Sioux walking delegate, not a battle leader, but according to Blake and Ray this new man is a fighter."

Then Mrs. Dade came out and bore the general off to breakfast, and during breakfast the chief was much preoccupied. Mrs. Dade and an aide-de-camp chatted on social matters. The general exchanged an occasional word with his host and his hostess, and finally surprised neither of them, when breakfast was over and he had consumed the last of his glass of hot water, by saying to his staff officer:
"I should like to see Mrs. Hay a few minutes, if possible. We'll walk round there first. Then—let the team be ready at ten o'clock."

TWO SECRETS.

Pathetic Little Tale of Two Fond Old Hearts That Suffered in Silence for Each Other.

"How's business, Eben?"
The old man was washing at the sink after his day's work, relates Youth's Companion.

"Fine, Marthy, fine!"
"Does the store look just the same, with the red geranium in the window?" Land, how I'd like to see it with the sun shining in! How does it look, Eben?"

Eben did not answer for a moment;
when he did his voice shook a bit.

"The store's never been the same since you left, Marthy."

A faint little flush came into Martha's withered cheek. Is a wife ever too old to be moved by her husband's flattery?

For years Eben and Martha had kept a tiny notion store; then Martha fell sick and was taken to the hospital. That was months ago. She was out now, but she would never be strong—never be partner in their happy little trade again.

"I can't get over a hankering for a sight of the store," thought Martha one forenoon. "If I take it real careful I can get down there; 'tisn't so far. Eben'll scold, but he'll be tickled most to death."

It took a long time for her to drag herself downtown, but at last she stood at the head of the little street where the store was. All of a sudden she stopped. Ahead, on the pavement, stood Eben. A tray hung from his neck on which were arranged a few cards of collar studs, some papers of pins, and shoeleaves. Two or three holders were in his shaking old hand, and as he stood he called his wares.

Martha clutched at the wall of the building. She looked over the way at the little store. Its windows were filled with fruit, and an Italian name fluttered on the awning. Then Martha understood. The store had gone to pay her expenses. She turned and hurried away as fast as her trembling limbs would take her.

"It will hurt him so to have me find out!" she thought, and the tears trickled down her face.

"He's kept a secret from me, and I'll keep one from him," she said to herself. "He shan't know that I know."

That night when Eben came in,
chilled and weary, Martha asked,
cheerfully, the old question:

"How's business?"
"Better'n ever, Marthy!" answered Eben.

A Moving Scene.

When Turner exhibited his great picture, "The Building of Carthage," he was disappointed because it had not been sold at once at the private view, and angry with the press for criticising it severely. Sir Robert Peel called upon him, relates Youth's Companion.

"Mr. Turner," said he, "I admire your 'Carthage' so much that I want to buy it. I am told you want 500 guineas for it."

"Yes," said Turner, "it was 500 guineas, but to-day it's 600."

"Well," said Sir Robert, "I did not come prepared to give 600, and I must think it over. At the same time, it seems to me that the change is an extraordinary piece of business on your part."

"Do as you please," said Turner.
"Do as you please."

After a few days Sir Robert called again upon the great painter. "Mr.
Turner," he began, "although I thought it a very extraordinary thing for you to raise your price, I shall be proud to give you the 600 guineas."

"Ah!" said Turner, "it was 600 guineas, but to-day it's 700."

Sir Robert grew angry, and Turner laughed. "I was only in fun," he said.
"I don't intend to sell the picture at all. It shall be my winding-sheet."

For years he kept it in his cellar.
Then it was brought up and hung in his gallery, where it remained as long as he lived. When he died he left it to the nation.

MIREY

By FRANK NELSON

(Copyright, 1903, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

F LIP the pillar a little higher up, Mirey," said the old man, peevishly. "Th' cher hurts my back—an' th' sun's a shinin' right in my eyes."

The girl tenderly adjusted the pillow and with masculine strength lifted the rude chair with its paralytic burden to a shadier spot under the apple tree.

"Ye ain't a treatin' Jake right, Mirey," grumbled the old man. "He ain't said nothin', but I kin see it; an' you a goin' to marry him this fall."

"Mebbe I am—mebbe I ain't," the girl said, impatiently.

The old man looked up at her anxiously.

"I knowed it," he exclaimed. "I've seed it a comin' ever since that Evans come a swoopin' round here, a pizen-an' yer mind with his stories 'bout fine houses, an' great ladies, an' dresses, an' diamonds. What brought him 'way up here in this wild place? Who knows what he is, ennyhow? Like as not he's one of them revnoo spies."

"Ye've got no call to slander him that a way, pap," retorted the girl, hotly. "Lots of them city folks spends their vacations in th' mountains. An' ennybody kin see he's a gentleman. He ain't no spy."

There were hot words over the young city man, leaving the old man sullen and dissatisfied and the girl defiant. As she turned to go he said:

"Mirey, they's sumthin' I clean forgot to tell Jake when he come by, an' I must see him. He ain't more'n half way to th' still, yet. Run, Mirey, ye must bring him back."

The girl hurried obediently down the steep path and along the base of the mountain, smiling as she went.

"I kin coax him into it after while," she murmured, "an' then I kin be sumbody. Rob says I kin have ennythin' I want."

A crash, a rattle of descending stones, a smothered ejaculation, and two struggling, interlocked men rolled down into the path below her. One of them, wrenching the revolver from the other's hand, arose panting, tall and powerful. His opponent lay quite still, blood trickling from a wound on the curly, handsome head.

With a choking cry Mirey sprang forward and raised the wounded head in her arms.

"Ye've killed him," she moaned.

"He's only stunned a leetle," growled the tall man. "He was a follerin' me, an' when I sprised him he tried to shoot. He's a spy, Mirey."

"You lie, Jake!" the girl cried, defiantly. "An' this won't do ye no good, nuther."

The tall man bent down and from the inner pocket of the stylish coat drew a long, official-looking envelope.

"Look at that, Mirey," he cried, with a note of triumph. "Frum th' Internal Revnoo D'partment!"

"That ain't his name on it—it's fer sumbody else," she protested, wildly. "Let me read what's inside."

She reached up a trembling hand, took the opened sheet and her sun-browned face turned pale. The wounded head dropped from the encircling arms and she staggered to her feet, swaying, crushing the letter in her hands. The man at her feet stirred and sighed. The tall man knelt and with his handkerchief bound the unresisting hands cruelly tight.

"What ye goin' to do with him, Mirey?" asked the girl, quietly, almost inaudibly.

"Ye've heerd rumors of what went with 'tother one," the tall man muttered, with a significant glance. "But I ain't fer me to say. Th' boys'll decide that."

The girl shuddered and turned away.

"You'll have to go an' tell th' boys, Mirey, while I watch him. He musn't git away."

"I—I kaint—bring them, Jake. I'll watch him. He'll not git away," savagely. "Give me th' gun."

Jake's eyes looked searchingly into hers. She met the scrutiny unflinchingly.

"Kin I trust ye, Mirey?"

"Don't I know what'll happen if he gits away," she cried, indignantly. "Dye think I'd send pap and—and you—to prison? I'll kill him first. Go—an' hurry!"

She seated herself on a nearby boulder and with drawn face and cold, pitiless eyes regarded the unconscious captive. The bees, home-going, heavy-laden, droned musically among the blossoms, loath to leave. From the distant river came the faint whistle of a passing boat. A great, black buzzard flapped heavily down upon the dead limb of a sycamore, wiped his hooked beak on his sable plumage and cocked his baleful eye inquisitively at the fallen man.

The captive heaved a long, quivering sigh, opened his eyes, struggled, and sat up, staring about him confusedly.

"Mirey," he said, faintly. "Is that you, Mirey?"

He drew his feet under him to rise. The revolver in the brown hand rose quickly, leveled at his face.

"Don't ye try it," the girl said, harshly. "I'll shoot—an' ye know I don't miss."

"Mirey! Have you turned against me?"

"Hain't ye 'played th' hypocrite long enuff, Joseph Armacost," she sneered.

The breeze rustled the letter at her feet. He glanced at it and started.

"I guess the play's over," he observed, wearily.

She made no reply. After awhile he looked up again and said softly: "Mirey, before they—before I go—will you forgive me?"

She turned away her head to hide the tears of wounded pride that would not be repressed.

"It was mean, cruel, despicable," he continued, "but we have to do such things sometimes—they're a part of our orders. I wish you could understand and forgive me, Mirey."

"Fergive ye!" she burst out. "Fergive ye! You lied to me, made love to me, learned me to love—yes, to love—such a snake as you. You'd have sent poor old pap to prison, an' made me an outcast—a convict's darter. Fergive ye? Never—you hound."

"Mirey, it wasn't all a lie. I did admire you—I do yet. And I intended to arrange that your father might escape it."

"Then ye wouldn't have done yer duty. You'd have played traitor to both sides. Don't talk to me, I don't never want to hear yer voice."

There was a long silence—then the man remarked:

"I suppose Jake has gone after the gang."

"Don't mention Jake's name. You ain't fit to. He's a man."

"Look here, Mirey. Do you realize what you are doing? You are helping murder me, as surely as though you had shot me through the head with that revolver. Do you understand what that means—to take human life—in cold blood? Bad as I am I never did what you are doing now. You are helping murder me, Mirey."

The girl shuddered again, then steeled herself.

"How do I know what they'll do with ye? That's their business—not mine. You an' them fer that."

"Mirey, you know as well as I that I'll never see another sunrise if you keep me here 30 minutes longer. You loved me once, Mirey. An hour ago you would have gone with me to the ends of the earth. Do you hate me so now that you will stain your soul with my blood?"

She gave a great sob.

"What kin I do? I dasen't let ye go. Let me alone. Fer God's sake don't tempt me."

He strained his strong wrists, the handkerchief fell over the supple, pliant hands, and he sprang to his feet, defying the deadly weapon upraised in the shaking hands.

"Stop! I'll have to shoot! I promised Jake—ye're a spy."

"Shoot, then, Mirey. I'd better die that way than by torture. Shoot—right here—between the eyes—be sure."

The dark eyes looked into his, filled with tears, and the grim muzzle dropped.

"O, Rob—I kaint—I'm a coward."

He sprang forward, seized the weapon, and fired every chamber in the air.

"Now, you've done your duty," he exclaimed, breathlessly. "You've fired every bullet at me and only wounded me as I ran. I've a boat concealed at the river. Goodby, Mirey."

She grasped his arm and clung to him desperately.

"Not till I know ye won't inform on pap and—Jake. I must know that, or I'll hold ye till they come—an' they've heerd th' shots."

"Could I betray you—after you've saved me? Mirey—girl—look in my eyes—they shall never know."

She looked, knew, and released him. He stooped to kiss her, but she thrust him back fiercely. He seized the brown right hand, pressed it to his lips, and bounded away. The girl fell on her knees.

"O, Lord, fergive me fer what I've done. Fergive me fer the lie I've about to tell. An', O, God, help me to fergit him."

Then she pressed her burning lips to the brown right hand, rubbed the spot madly with the crushed letter, and, with a little moan, cast the paper away, as she cast him from her heart, and rose to face the hurrying men.

Late that night when Jake returned, weary and desperate, from the fruitless search, Mirey, from the old man's side, stepped forward in the moonlight to meet him.

"Jake," she said, softly, "don't worry. He'll never tell. I know."

Jake looked down, sternly, into the dark eyes.

"Mirey—you let him go."

She laid both brown hands on his arm and looked up, pleadingly, into the grave, rugged face.

"Yes—it was better. I've been a fool, Jake. But it's all past now. An'—Jake—ye needn't wait till fall—ef ye'll have me yet."

Jake stooped, kissed the quivering lips, put his strong arm about her, and led her to the smiling old man.

THE BABIES OF SIAM.

They Are Troubled Very Little with Clothes and Are All Called "Dang."

When a Siamese baby is born the mother is removed from the bed and laid upon a long, narrow, flat board. By her side a big fire is made in a portable earthenware stove. The servants or friends scatter round the house a certain kind of fruit which is supposed to be efficacious in preventing the entrance of evil spirits. A cord also encircles the house. This cord has been blessed by the priests, and is another barrier against supernatural visitants, says London Queen.

As a matter of fact, what with the heat of the fire, the heat of the climate, and the presence of many people in the room, it is so stiflingly hot and uncomfortable that it may be doubted whether evil wanderers from below would care to sojourn there.

There are always three old women present on these occasions, whose business it is to solicit for the little one the patronage and protection of sundry guardian angels. They make three balls of rice, and throw them in lucky directions, and so insure a certain amount of good fortune for the babe.

All babies in Siam have the same name when they are born. This is "Dang," which means "red." It is a silly name to give, for though a Siamese baby is a trifle like raw beef in color, it is at once covered over with a yellow paste, which gives it the appearance of suffering from a highly concentrated and expansive form of bilious attack. This yellow paste is made of turmeric powder, and it is supposed to keep away mosquito bites.

The baby wears no clothes, and continues to appear in the same lack of apparel for several years. Boys and girls alike do without clothing for a comparatively long time.

This undress uniform, it may be noted, possesses certain distinct advantages. It is cool, sanitary and economical.

Children are frequently adorned with massive gold and silver bracelets and anklets. They wear a little silver shield, fastened in front of the body by a string of beads. This shield is purely ornamental, playing no essential part in the child's costume, for it is often lost and not replaced, the string of beads remaining maybe for several months longer.

ANIMAL CHARACTERISTICS.

Some to Which the Emission of Noxious Odors Is a Means of Protection.

"That the strong odors emitted by many living creatures may play a protective role in their lives has been often suggested," said an attendant at the zoo to a Washington Star man.

"A considerable number of animals, as is well known, emit strong odors, which are generally unpleasant, at least to man, and naturalists have often considered these odors as playing an important part in the biology of the animal. The odor protects it, and serves to drive away certain enemies. It is certain, for example, that the skunk, whose disagreeable odor is so strong that it remains from autumn to spring in a place where one of the creatures has been killed, is very generally respected by carnivorous animals. But some other odors are hardly protective. It is true that they then play another part. They constitute a secondary sexual characteristic, often limited to one sex by which the males and females find each other out at the mating season, and which disappears when this is over. There are some moths that exhale an odor of musk, only the males have it, and these only at the mating season. An Australian duck emits a marked odor which is restricted to the male, and is strongest in spring.

"But with many animals there are strong odors that seem to have no sexual character and to confer no particular protection against other animals. In addition it would seem that other odors attract enemies. Crows seem to have a special liking for insects with a strong odor. Certain birds have a taste for those myriapods that exhale a marked odor of prussic acid. Perhaps we must conclude from these facts that the tastes of animals, so far as smells are concerned, differ sensibly from ours."

Delicate Contrivance.

Delicate vibrations too slow to produce sound—that is, having a rate of less than 16 per second—are made audible by a new apparatus. A ten-pound weight, having a small carbon plate cemented vertically to its side, is suspended from the arm of a standard by a stout rubber band, and a carbon block is placed on the floor or other vibrating body, with a slender graphite pencil resting on it and leaning against the carbon plate. The carbon block and carbon plate are connected with a telephone in an electric circuit. When the apparatus is placed on a wood floor, the heart beat of a person standing near produces an audible vibration in the telephone, as do also delicate tremors and distant vibrations from any source.—Science.

Very Conservative.

Conservatism is believed to be the distinguishing characteristic of Englishmen. A young man of Bermuda, of English descent, now residing in New York city, shows that the belief is well founded. He imports his collars from St. George's Town, on the island where he was born, not because he has any prejudice against American-made goods, nor because he can't get a collar to suit his needs in one of the thousand or more shops where collars are sold here, but simply that he is used to the sort that he imports. "It's the kind I've always had, y' know," he says, by way of explanation.

Way Some Debaters Have.

Smith—Jones is a very convincing debater, isn't he?

Brown—Yes, he never stops till he has convinced you that he is wrong.

—Stray Stories.

MAKE FIGURES LOOK SMALL.

Mental Mathematicians Get to Work and Shimmer Them Down to Nearly Nothing.

Whitelaw Reid, of New York, in the annual address before Phi Beta Kappa society, of Vassar college, discussed divorce and its attendant evils. He said: "Six hundred and fifty-four thousand persons divorced in this country during the last 20 years."

This statement, says the narrator of the story, caused wrinkles and furrows to form on the forehead of one prim maiden. A flash of the eye, and then a whisper to an attentive classmate: "That's equal to $2,700 persons a year."

The classmate's brow now began to denote activity: "Or 2,725 persons a month."

"Or 681 persons a week," said the first mental mathematician.

"Ninety-seven persons each sever marital relations," was the next computation.

"Why, that's only four persons an hour," came as a cheerful rejoinder.

"Pooh, only one couple every half hour."

"And they say there are 70,000,000 people in this country."

"What a narrow view some men take of life." And the other nodded an agreement.

Merit Makes It the World's Leader.

Merit, greatest medicine ever put into convenient form for quick, easy, pleasant use—backed by the right kind of advertising, has given Cascarets the greatest sale in the world among laxative medicines. Over ten million boxes a year are now being bought by the American people. Great success always brings out imitators, and readers are warned that when it comes to buying medicine the best is none too good, and wherever a dealer offers to sell you something just as good, put it down as a worthless fake, put your money in your pocket, and go to a store where you will be treated fairly, and where, when you ask for Cascarets, you will get what you ask for.

Too Suggestive of the Past.

THE SALESWOMAN

Compelled to Be on Her Feet the Larger Part of the Day Finds a Tonic In Pe-ru-na.

Miss Curtin, of St. Paul, Gives Her Experience.

Miss Nellie Curtin.

MISS NELLIE CURTIN, 646 Pearl street, St. Paul, Minn., head saleswoman in a department store writes:

"I have charge of a department in a dry goods store, and after standing the larger part of the day, I would go home with a dull ache, generally through my entire body. I used Peruna and feel so much better that I walk to and from the store now. I know Peruna to be the best medicine on the market for the diseases peculiar to women."

Nothing is so weakening to the human system as the constant loss of mucus. Catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membrane produces an excessive formation of mucus. Whether the mucus membrane be located in the head or pelvic organs, the discharge of mucus is sure to occur. This discharge of mucus constitutes a weakening drain; the system cannot long withstand the loss of mucus, hence it is that women afflicted with catarrhal affections of the pelvic organs feel tired and languid, with weak back and throbbing brain. A course of Peruna is sure to restore health by cutting off the weakening drain of the daily loss of mucus.

An Admirable Tonic.

Congressman Mark H. Dunnell, National Hotel, Washington, D. C., writes: "Your Peruna being used by myself and many of my friends and acquaintances not only as a cure for catarrh but also as an admirable tonic for physical recuperation, I gladly recommend it to all persons requiring such remedies."

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

THE BULL DOG GERM

You know how a bull dog bites. When he sets his jaw, hardly anything but death will cause him to let go his hold.

Same with a microbe; only more so. Get rid of him, or he'll get rid of you. By degrees, as he continues to live and multiply, he will so poison your blood, as to make you very sick indeed.

Caleb Powers Trial.

Henry Broughton, the missing State witness in the Caleb Powers case, was brought back to Georgetown, Saturday, by detectives who were sent to Bell county for him. Broughton had been drinking and had not recovered sufficiently to be called to the witness stand in the afternoon. Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin secured the indulgence of the court to call him Monday morning. With the calling of Broughton and one other witness, who, it is rumored, is Robert Noakes, of Whitley county, a witness who ran away after the first trial of Powers, the State will rest its case. The evidence Saturday afternoon related to the calling of soldiers to Frankfort following the killing of Goebel, and the introduction of the code signal telegram sent out by Adj. Gen. Collier. Eleven witnesses testified.

BOURBON COUNTY BONDS SELLING.—N. W. Harris & Co. are finding a good demand in the Boston market for a $75,000 block of Bourbon county, Ky. bonds, owing to the unprecedented buying by small county investors who rarely go into the open market. These bonds are selling at 104½, with accrued interest, which nets the purchaser about 4 per cent. They mature in installments January 1, 1906, and 1923.

EXCURSION.—Cincinnati, O., and return, August 23, at $1.25. Leave Paris 7:25 and 7:50 a. m. Leave Cincinnati, Fourth Street Station, at 8 p. m.

White-Jett Trial Closed For the Present.

Sentence was formally pronounced on Carl Jett and Tom White at Cynthiana Saturday morning, sentencing them to hard labor in the penitentiary for the balance of their natural lives. The defense had made a motion for a new trial and the motion and grounds were overruled. A stay of execution was granted for sixty days pending an appeal to the Court of Appeals. The defense was given until September 10 in which to file a bill of evidence and exceptions in the case.

White and Jett were surprised when they received information that they would be separated until they enter the prison gates, should that ever be. White was taken to Covington by a detail of soldiers and Jett taken to Lexington.

Curtis Jett has once more been saved from the gallows he so richly deserves by the vote of one juror, Jasper King, who can now take his place on the bad eminence occupied by Burns Fitzpatrick, who stood between murder and death in the trial at Jackson. Whatever may be the real reason that controlled them, they will be forever associated in the public mind with bad motives and worse conduct. Their names will be kept alive with bad repute. They will be bracketed together in infamy.

For milk cows and fattening stock of all kinds, nothing is better than sugar cane. One acre of it will go as far as three of corn. For pure seed go to Geo. W. Stuart's.

My agency insures against fire, wind and storm—best old reliable prompt paying companies—non-union. W. O. HINTON, Agent.

For concrete pavements and all kinds of cement work see Geo. W. Stuart.

A BREATHITT PASTIME.—At Oakdale, Breathitt county, Ed Eastin and Charles Salyers engaged in a shooting affray as the result of a quarrel over a game of cards. Eastin's bullets went wild, one wounding a by-stander. Salyers' aim was more accurate and he shot Eastin twice in the breast and once in his head, killing him. Salyers is in jail at Jackson.

SUGAR CANE will and the drought and now is the time to sow. It is one of the best of stock foods. For pure feed go to Geo. W. Stuart's.

Leaders Meet.

Gov. J. C. W. Beckham, S. W. Hager, chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee; John Fulton, secretary; Ollie James and other Democratic leaders met in Louisville, Saturday, and held an important discussion of the policies for the coming campaign. The conference was held at Seelbach's Hotel, where the Democratic headquarters were opened Monday. The conduct of the campaign has been turned over by the committee to the chairman and secretary, who will take active steps in the prosecution of the campaign, beginning the first of this week.

With the exception of the work from headquarters, the plans in regard to the campaign are yet indefinite, and while it is said that Gov. Beckham will make an active canvass of the State, other measures are not yet fully decided upon.

Arrangements for headquarters in Seelbach's Hotel were made, and Mr. Hager and Mr. Fulton will be located there from now on.

LIVE STOCK, CROP, ETC.

—C. W. Wilson, of Nicholas, raised 278 shocks, or about 20 tons of hay, on nine acres of ground.

—Horses and mules are very high—suckling mules selling for $65 and $75 in Henry county, Ky.

—Mr. G. B. Cannon, of Scott county, bought of John R. Baruhill ten head of 55-pound shoats at $3 per head.

—Several farmers in the South Elkhorn section of Fayette county have sold their crops of tobacco in the field as it stands for $6 to $9 per hundred.

—Wm. Rice has consigned his black five year-old mare, with a trotting trial of 2:14, to Tranter-Kenney Sales Co., which takes place in November at Lexington.

—A storm in the neighborhood of Glenville, Daviess county, early Friday morning demolished a church and several tobacco barns. Several farmers lost large crops of tobacco, destroyed by wind, rain and hail. The damage is estimated at $50,000.

—"Dollar" wheat seen on 'change Friday for the first time since the Leiter corner in 1898. It was cash wheat and there were sales at that figure. Later $1.02 was asked and $1.01 bid, with no sales. The short September option touched 85c, the highest point in fourteen years.

—The reports received place the total wheat yield for the State of Kansas at 90,270,000 bushels. This year's total production is greater by 66 per cent., or 35,946,200 bushels, than that of 1902, and surpasses even the yield of 1901 of 90,045,514 bushels, making the banner crop in Kansas' history.
